MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Official:

The Wisconsin Department of Justice, in conjunction with Wisconsin Indianhead Technical College, recently held training on the Wisconsin Public Records Law. Two hundred and sixty-eight law enforcement professionals from around the state participated in the training held at 19 different locations via videoconferencing. Three segments, one hour each, were devoted to the Public Records Law and its application to law enforcement agencies.

The Wisconsin Department of Justice offers a number of resources for law enforcement officers when it comes to better understanding both Wisconsin's Open Meetings and Public Records Laws. Many of these resources are located on WILENET. Video recordings of the recent training are available there. As well, based on questions from law enforcement, a FAQ section has been created as a further resource. Copies of the outlines corresponding to the three video training segments can also be found on WILENET, as well as several past columns dealing addressing public records issues. A general outline of the state's Public Records Law can be found at the Department of Justice homepage: www.doj.state.wi.us

Law enforcement agencies should also be aware of certain statutory requirements placed upon them by the Wisconsin Public Records Law [Wis. Stat. Sec. 19.34(1)]:

- Police chiefs and county sheriffs need to designate a legal custodian who will be able to make decisions on behalf of the agency in regards to public records responsibilities. If no custodian is selected, the responsibility will remain with the chief or sheriff.*
- All law enforcement departments need to display a public records policy which will include information specified by Wis. Stat. Sec. 19.34(1).*

If you have questions about the Public Records Law that cannot be answered by reviewing the resources on WILENET, please contact Connie Anderson at (608) 266-3952 to speak to one of our Assistant Attorney Generals with your public records questions.

Sincerely,

2010 Attorney General's Summit on Public Safety

Caring for Cops: The Challenges of a Hazardous Profession

Tuesday evening, June 15, through Thursday afternoon, June 17, 2010
Chula Vista, Wisconsin Dells

Five shooting incidents – 15 law enforcement officers dead. 2009 was the worst year for multiple-officer shootings since 1981. Four of those officers were gunned down on November 29 during an ambush at a Washington State coffee shop. The Pierce County, Washington, Sheriff's Department provided the initial response and served as the lead investigative agency. Rick Adamson, Chief of Operations for Sheriff's Office will talk about what his staff found at the coffee shop, the ensuing investigation, and how the agency is caring for officers who are dealing with the deaths of several colleagues. Washington State had six officers slain in the last quarter of 2009. In addition to the Lakewood officers, the Seattle Police Department had an officer assassinated on Halloween and the Pierce County Sheriff's Office lost one of their own deputies during a domestic call. Deputy Kent Mundell passed away on December 28, less than a month after the coffee shop slayings.

A law enforcement officer is more likely to die from suicide than a homicide... statistics show that every 24 hours an officer will die from suicide. In an effort to reduce officer suicides, the state of Florida has developed a suicide prevention toolkit and website called "In Harm's Way." Donna Schulz, Law Enforcement Coordination Manager with the US Attorney's Office in Tampa, helped develop and distribute this program. Ms. Schulz will share her perspective on Line of Duty Suicides during a plenary session and then in a breakout session she will outline the steps law enforcement agencies can take to help prevent officer suicides.

Maryland v. Shatzer

Decided by the United States Supreme Court-
February 24, 2010

This case deals with the invocation of the Miranda right to an attorney and the Edwards rule, which prohibits a re-interrogation of a subject in custody once the subject after the reading of the Miranda warning invokes his right to counsel. Specifically the Shatzer court held that the Edwards rule ceases to be applicable and the police may approach for a re-interrogation 14 days after the subject is released from custody. Interestingly, the Court also held that serving a sentence in the general prison population is considered to be a release from custody for Miranda purposes.

Facts:

In 2003 the defendant was serving a sentence for an unrelated matter when he became suspected of having sexually abused his three year old son. A detective assigned to the investigation of the child sexual abuse interviewed the defendant at the Maryland Correctional Institute. The defendant was read his Miranda rights and ultimately the defendant invoked his right to an attorney and was returned to the general prison population.

Two years and six months later more information connecting the defendant with the sexual abuse of his son came to light. The police went to the Roxbury Correctional Institute, where the defendant had been transferred to, and read the defendant his rights and this time the defendant waived his rights and talked to the police investigator. Ultimately the defendant made an inculpatory statement.

Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that the Edwards rule prohibited the police from approaching him about the sexual abuse matter, since the previous time he had been questioned he invoked his Miranda right to an attorney. Under Edwards, once a person invokes his Miranda right to an attorney the police can not approach the subject on that matter so long as the subject remains in custody. Since the defendant had remained incarcerated between his first invocation and the second police approach 2 years and 6 months later, the defendant reasoned that the attempt to re-interrogate him violated Edwards.

The State's Argument:

The state argued that enough time had passed since the original invocation to allow the police to approach the defendant. Also the state argued that since the defendant had been in prison for a substantial period of time the normal coercive circumstances inherent to custody were no longer applicable, and thus the Edwards rule protections were no longer necessary.

The United States Supreme Court Holding:

The United States Supreme Court reversed earlier holdings on the case and ruled that the Edwards rule was not applicable and consequently that the defendant's inculpatory statements were admissible. Specifically the court held that after the original invocation the defendant's release from the interrogation room back to the prison general population constituted a release from custody for Miranda purposes. Thus two years and six months later the police were lawful in re-approaching the defendant and attempting to question him, since in effect he had been released from custody after he first invoked. The release from custody, albeit from a jail to the prison general population, works the same, reasoned the court, as a release from jail to the street. In addition, the Supreme Court enunciated a new rule that once a person invokes his right to an attorney after being Mirandized in custody the police may not re-approach the subject under Edwards, as it is now revised, until the person has been released from custody for at least 14 days. Obviously under this new rule the statements in this case were fine as far more than 14 days, 2 years and six months, had passed from the first interrogation to the second one.

Practical Application:

This case in some ways helps the police and in some ways hurts the police.

The good part: This case buys the argument that a prison is like a home and that for Miranda purposes being in prison is like not being in custody. However, being taken out of the general prison population to be interrogated is sufficiently custodial to trigger the Miranda requirement though the return to the prison general population after the interrogation is a release from custody allowing the police to again contact the subject. Wisconsin cases, notably Sate v. Armstrong, have rejected the notion that any kind of incarceration can be considered non-custodial but in light of this case and its strong language it is highly possible that in the future our courts will accept the prison as "home" notion. However I feel this concept is only good for a prison and would likely not be good for a jail or for interrogating a person who has not yet been convicted of the charge for which he is in jail, as that person is far more vulnerable to state pressure than a convicted person serving out his time in prison.

The bad part: Before this case, the rule is that once a person is released from custody the slate is wiped clean and the police could feel free to approach the subject as soon as they wished. Now, that is no longer true. Now the rule is that once a person invoked their Miranda right to an attorney while in custody, the police can not approach the subject again so long as he/she is in custody, though placement in the prison general population is considered a release from custody. Once the person is released from actual custody or placed in the prison general population the police must wait for 14 days after the break in custody until they can approach the subject. Since there will likely be debate as to what is meant by 14 days, the safest course might be to wait 15 days to remove any doubt.

Of course, like always, the subject may reinitiate contact with the police any time they wish.

SCHEDULING OF PHARMACEUTICAL PREPARATIONS

Pharmaceutical preparations are found in three broad categories which are over-the-counter (OTC) preparations, non-controlled prescription products (PP) and controlled substances (CS). OTC preparations are common, relatively safe drugs that do not require a prescription to obtain and are readily available at pharmacies, department, convenience and grocery stores. Examples of OTC preparations are aspirin, ibuprofen, Al eve (naproxen), Tylenol (acetaminophen), Benadryl (diphenhydramine), Claritin (loratadine).

Non-controlled prescription products do not contain controlled substances and are meant to treat a specific illness or condition. To obtain a non-controlled prescription product, one must first see a practitioner (physician, physicians' assistant, and nurse practitioner) to have his/her medical condition diagnosed. The practitioner may then prescribe an appropriate prescription product. Examples of non-controlled prescription products would be levothyroxine (thyroid medication), diltiazem (angina pectoris/high blood pressure), amitriptyline (antidepressant), tramadol (analgesic), and amoxicillin (antibiotic). Non-controlled prescription products must be obtained at a dispensary (pharmacy, doctor) and generally require the signature of the person obtaining the prescription product. While it is legal to possess and use an authorized prescribed non-controlled prescription product, it is illegal to give or sell that prescribed prescription product to another individual §450.11(9) (b).

Controlled substances are covered in the Wisconsin Uniform Controlled Substances Act (Chapter 961) and are listed in five schedules. Schedule I controlled substances (§961.14) are highly addictive, have no medical use and are never prescribed by practitioners. Only a few Schedule I controlled substances are routinely seen by law enforcement such as: heroin, LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide), MDMA (3, 4-methylenedioxymethamphetamine), mescaline (from cactus), psilocin or psilocybin (from mushrooms), and THC (tetrahydrocannabinols/marijuana). Schedule II controlled substances (§961.16) are addictive drugs that have some medical use. Some of the more common Schedule II controlled substances are cocaine, amphetamine, methamphetamine, methadone and oxycodone. Schedule III controlled substances (§961.18) are less addictive and have more medical uses. Common Schedule III controlled substances would be phendimetrazine, ketamine, buprenorphine and steroids. This pattern of addiction and medical use continues with Schedule IV (§961.20) and Schedule V (§961.22) controlled substances. Common Schedule IV controlled substances would be alprazolam (Xanax), diazepam (Valium), ephedrine, and phentermine. The only Schedule V controlled substances that are likely to be seen are pseudoephedrine (the starting material for making Methamphetamine) and codeine found in a cough syrup.

A number of controlled substances in Schedules II through V are present in prescription products. Just as for non-controlled prescription products, an individual must first see a practitioner for a proper diagnosis before receiving a prescription product that contains a controlled substance. A prescription product containing a controlled substance can usually be easily indicated using a pharmaceutical identifier (see "Establishing Probable Cause for Indication of Pharmaceutical Products", Law Enforcement Bulletin, March 6, 2009, pages 4-5). The controlled substance Schedules (I through V) provided in the pharmaceutical identifiers are federal schedules which are the same in the Wisconsin Uniform Controlled Substances Act. This is a convenient starting point for determining where a prescription product containing a controlled substance can be found in the Wisconsin Uniform Controlled Substances Act.

Only a limited number of narcotic drugs appear in more than one schedule in the Uniform Controlled Substances Act. The two most common controlled substances which occur in more than one schedule are Codeine and Hydrocodone. Each of these is covered individually in the following tables.

Codeine Schedule II	Codeine Schedule III	Codeine Schedule V
§961.16 (2) (a) 4.  Materials (usually powder) that contain only codeine and no other active ingredients.	§961.18(5)(b)  Usually tablets (for example Tylenol with Codeine) which contain codeine and have one or more active, non-narcotic ingredients such as Acetaminophen, Caffeine, Aspirin, etc.  §961.18(5)(a)  These are very rare but are materials which contain codeine and an equal or greater quantity of an isoquinoline alkaloid of opium.	§961.22(2)(a)  Typically a cough syrup containing codeine as an ingredient.

Hydrocodone Schedule II	Hydrocodone Schedule III
§961.16(2) (a) 7.  Materials (usually powder) that contain only hydrocodone and no other active ingredients.	§961.18(5)(d)  Usually marked tablets (most common being Vicodin) containing hydrocodone and one or more active, non-narcotic ingredients such as Acetaminophen, Caffeine, Aspirin, etc.  §961.18(5)(c)  These are rare but are materials which contain hydrocodone and a four-fold or greater quantity of an isoquinoline alkaloid of opium.

The possession of a Schedule I or II narcotic controlled substance is a felony §961.41(3g) (am) while possession of a Schedule III, IV or V narcotic controlled substance is a misdemeanor §961.41(3g) (b).

The possession of the following potential date-rape, non-narcotic drugs gamma-hydroxybutyric acid (GHB) §961.14(5) (ag), gamma-butyrolactone (GBL) §961.14(5) (ag), 1-4-butanediol §961.14(5) (ag), ketamine §961.18(4) (ak) or flunitrazepam §961.20(2) (eg) are felonies under §961.41(3) (g). The possession of methamphetamine §961.16(5) (b) is also a felony covered under §961.41(3g) (f).

Delivery of any scheduled drug or prescription product is a felony.

There is often confusion about where Oxycontin is covered in the Uniform Controlled Substances Act. Oxycontin is a product name and is a time released form of oxycodone. Oxycodone is a Schedule II controlled substance covered in §961.16(5) (a)11.

Should you have any questions about the scheduling of a controlled substance or any product that contains a controlled substance, contact the Crime Laboratory that services your area for assistance.

WPPA To Host 5th Annual Law Enforcement Week Breakfast

The Wisconsin Professional Police Association (WPPA) will host a pancake and sausage breakfast on Friday, May 7, to recognize all active and retired law enforcement officers. Although National Police Week is May 9-15, the Wisconsin Law Enforcement Memorial Ceremony will be held Friday, May 7, at the State Capitol.

This is the fifth year that the WPPA will offer the pancake and sausage breakfast to all law enforcement officers attending the Wisconsin Law Enforcement Memorial Ceremony. The breakfast will be free of charge; however, there will be an opportunity for those attending to make a contribution to a local food pantry. The WPPA has committed to making this an annual event to recognize all Wisconsin law enforcement officers – both active and retired.

The breakfast will be at the Olin Park Pavilion before the vehicle procession to the State Capitol to honor Wisconsin's fallen officers. We will begin serving at 9:00 a.m., and we invite everyone to attend.

FBI OFFICERS KILLED

These statistics represent preliminary information received by the FBI, January through February 2010: Seven law enforcement officers have been killed due to criminal actions. During the same time period in 2009, two officers were slain. Three deaths occurred in the south, two in the west, one in the northeast, and one in the midwest. Circumstances involving the seven slain officers are as follows: two officers were slain while attempting other arrests, two were ambushed, two were performing traffic pursuits/stops, and one was answering domestic disturbance call. Firearms were used in six of the killings (three rifles, two handguns, and one firearm type not reported) and one vehicle was used. Three of the seven officers were wearing protective vests. There have been seven separate incidents in which these seven officers have been slain. All of the incidents have been cleared by arrest or exceptional means. Ten law enforcement officers have been accidentally killed. During the same time period in 2009, 13 officers were accidentally killed. Five deaths occurred in the south, two in the midwest, two in the northeast, and one in the west. Seven officers were killed in automobile accidents, one was killed in motorcycle accident, one in accidental shooting, and one officer was struck by a vehicle.

Incident Summaries

Chattahoochee Hills Police Department, Georgia, Veteran Lieutenant, aged 56 with approximately 30 years law enforcement experience, was fatally shot on 02/15/2010. At about 11:35 a.m., Lieutenant was responding to assist fellow officer in traffic matter. While responding to traffic scene, it appears Lieutenant came upon possible criminal act in progress. Based on initial crime scene investigation, due to no known witnesses of actual shooting, Lieutenant was engaged by unknown subject(s) using .223 caliber rifle. Victim Lieutenant was shot through open driver's side window of patrol vehicle, receiving wounds in bicep, shoulder, and right eye. Investigation also revealed Victim Lieutenant attempted to make call on radio as if to advise of impending stop with subject vehicle. After or during being shot, Victim Lieutenant attempted to drive patrol vehicle in reverse to avoid ambush. After traveling approximately 75 feet, patrol vehicle stopped near shoulder of dirt road. Further investigation revealed Victim Lieutenant attempted to remove belt radio and handgun. Witness living nearby heard shots fired and located critically injured Victim Lieutenant still in patrol vehicle. Witness called 911 center and immediate law enforcement/medical assistance responded to scene of incident. Victim Lieutenant was life flighted to hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries. On 02/17/2010, subject was identified through tips to Georgia Bureau of Investigation tip line and positive investigation through local, state, and federal task force that was created directly for this matter. In late afternoon hours, subject was arrested without incident at residence by special task force. Subject confessed to murdering Victim Lieutenant. Following subject's arrest, search of residence was conducted and rifle believed to be used in incident was recovered. Subject is currently incarcerated at correctional facility and is awaiting trial.

Fresno County Sheriff's Office (FCSO) and Reedley Police Department (RPD), California, on 02/25/2010, at approximately 9:30 a.m., three FCSO deputies and one RPD officer were shot while attempting to serve search warrant on subject. Although two FCSO deputies suffered non-life threatening injuries, Veteran FCSO Deputy Sheriff, aged 49 with over 11 years law enforcement experience with agency, was fatally shot. RPD Police Officer with approximately two years law enforcement experience with agency was shot during same incident and succumbed to gunshot wound on 03/01/2010 after being removed from life support. Incident began when FCSO joined California fire officials to serve search warrant on subject at mobile home in small rural community of Minkler, California. Warrant was connected to investigations involving recent series of reported arson and shooting incidents. After officers went to door of trailer to serve warrant, shots were fired from inside residence. After firing on officers and wounding two deputies, subject barricaded himself inside residence and continued to fire at responding law enforcement officers. Around 200 officers from multiple agencies responded to shooting scene. It was estimated that well over 200 rounds were fired between subject and law enforcement. During incident, third FCSO Deputy was also injured. RPD Officer, situated a significant distance away from trailer, raised head to assess location of subject when he was shot in head by high-powered rifle possibly equipped with scope. In late afternoon, law enforcement officers inserted CS gas into subject's home. Shortly thereafter, subject's wife exited mobile home stating subject had committed suicide. SWAT team entered trailer and located subject's body. Victim FCSO Deputy Sheriff was pronounced dead in mid afternoon. Victim RPD Officer was placed on life support but was removed from support on 03/01/2010.

Additional details regarding these incidents are not available at this time. Should you wish to obtain information for condolence purposes, please contact your department's Law Enforcement Online (LEO) representative.
