MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague,

The Wisconsin Department of Justice -- Training and Standards Bureau has partnered with the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs (WDVA) in an effort to focus on transitioning veterans back into the civilian workforce. According to the WDVA, Wisconsin is one of six states selected by the National Governors Association (NGA) to participate in the Veterans' Licensing and Certification Demonstration Policy Academy, designed to assist states in easing veterans' transition from military service to civilian life and meaningful employment.

The focus of the Training and Standards Bureau partnership will be on transitioning military police officers into certified law enforcement officers. Currently, the Law Enforcement Standards Board considers waiver of preparatory training for military police officers who meet the minimum requirements outlined by the board.

Applications will be considered for those officers who have already gained employment with a Wisconsin law enforcement or tribal law enforcement agency (form DJLE303, the Verification of Employment Standards and Application for Certification form, is on file with the Bureau), and for applicants who have received a conditional offer of employment with a Wisconsin law enforcement or tribal law enforcement agency.

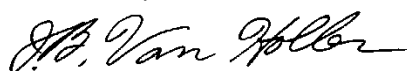

The Board considers waivers of preparatory training for law enforcement and tribal law enforcement applicants who meet the following eligibility requirements:

- 1. Applicants must meet the minimum employment requirements for law enforcement and tribal law enforcement officers set forth in Wisconsin Administrative Code Chapter LES 2, and must have gained employment as a law enforcement or tribal law enforcement officer with a Wisconsin law enforcement or tribal law enforcement agency, or must have a conditional offer of law enforcement or tribal law enforcement employment with a Wisconsin law enforcement agency.*
- 2. Applicants must have completed preparatory law enforcement officer training in another state (or with the military or federal government) that is similar to Wisconsin's 520-hour preparatory law enforcement officer training academy.*

3. Applicants must have held employment as a certified or licensed law enforcement or tribal law enforcement officer full-time, for a minimum of one (1) year fully empowered and paid for all hours worked, and left certified or licensed law enforcement or tribal law enforcement officer employment voluntarily with a good record and been out of that employment for three (3) years or less.

Applicants who meet all of the above requirements are permitted to complete the Reciprocity Examination in lieu of the 520-hour preparatory law enforcement officer training academy. Any questions regarding the waiver of training for law enforcement or the transition process from military police to civilian law enforcement may be directed to Senior Training Officer Kristin Boustany at boustanykk@doj.state.wi.us. Thank you and best wishes for a safe and happy 2014.

Sincerely,

*J.B. Van Hollen
Attorney General*

LEGAL POINTS

If you have any comments regarding Legal Points, please contact Dave Perlman, Assistant Attorney General, P.O. Box 7070, Madison, WI 53707-7070 608-266-1420,

State v. Dyllon Maddix Decided by the Court of Appeals- April 2013

Issue:

The issue in this case was whether the community caretaker doctrine justified a warrantless search within the home. The court of appeals found that there was no objectively reasonable basis for the police to believe that a member of the public was in need of assistance or that the officer's or another person's safety was at risk.

Facts:

The police responded to a domestic disturbance call in the upper unit of a two flat house. While walking around the house the police heard a female yelling in the upper portion of the building. The police knocked on the back door of the house and got no response and heard more female screams as if somebody was in trouble. The police forced entry based on the screaming and climbed a set of stairs. The police knocked on the second floor interior door and the defendant opened the door. Upon entry into the apartment the police noted the presence of an adult female but no one else was present.

The police separated the defendant from the woman and conducted separate interviews; the officers discovered that the defendant and the female were boyfriend and girlfriend and that they had been engaged in an argument. The female said that she was the person who had been screaming. The interviews took between 15 and 20 minutes and during that time no one else was seen or heard. After the interviews the police performed a protective sweep to insure that there were no other people in the apartment and the ten minute sweep revealed nothing unusual. About two minutes after the sweep was concluded the police discussed if anybody had checked the door on the other side of the hall from the bedroom. The police realized that at the end of the hallway that was not lit there was another closed door back in the corner that had not been checked. The police went inside and found marijuana in a closet.

The Defendant's argument:

The defendant challenged both the forcible entry into the apartment and then at the end the search into the previously overlooked room. The trial court rejected both of these arguments and ratified the police conduct. The defendant appealed.

The Court's Holding:

The court of appeals ruled that original search of the apartment and the secondary search of the overlooked bedroom were all part and parcel of one search. While the court had no problem with the original entry based on the females screams they were troubled by the search that was conducted 20 minutes after arrival and without any evidence of other people being present or anyone being in need of immediate assistance. The only thing the police seemed to go on was their feeling that the female had not adequately explained why she was screaming. The court of appeals held that the female's failure to offer a full explanation of her fear, together with all the evidence the police confronted; that she was arguing with her boyfriend and the failure to observe any injuries, any indicator that other people were present, and the failure to observe anybody in immediate need of assistance, did not provide an objectively reasonable basis for the officers to employ the community caretaker justification for extending a search into the previously overlooked bedroom. The court distinguished this case from previous cases where the community caretaker doctrine was endorsed; State v. Pinkard and State v. Gracia. The court noted that in both Pinkard and Gracia there was evidence supporting the notion that people were in need of aid, and there was no such evidence in this case. The court ultimately opined that while the police validly exercised their community caretaker function in entering the apartment and interviewing the subjects there was no reasonable basis to conclude that searching the apartment was justified under the community caretaker doctrine.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.
