MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague –

Law enforcement agencies have access to a new database used to conduct background checks prior to returning seized, stolen or abandoned firearms to lawful owners. Federal laws were revised to allow law enforcement agencies to access the National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS) Index to conduct background checks for the return of firearms. The NICS Index is managed by the Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division of the FBI and specifically the NICS. The NICS Index contains information provided by local, state, tribal and federal agencies regarding persons prohibited from receiving firearms. This is information not found in the Interstate Identification Index (III), National Crime Information Center (NCIC) or state criminal history repositories.

The Crime Information Bureau (CIB) has created a new transaction in the TIME System to search multiple data services including: CCH, CIB Hotfiles, DOC, DOT, III, NCIC and NICS. This functionality, available in Portal 100 through form number 0028, will provide law enforcement agencies information needed simultaneously to determine if a firearm can be returned to an owner. Agencies must have a valid ORI to access the NICS Index.

NICS has created a “Law Enforcement Guide” to assist law enforcement in understanding the Federal disqualifiers for firearm purchases and possession. This guide is available on WILENET at HTTPS://WILENET.ORG/SECURE/HTML/RESOURCES/SQUADROOM/NICS-LE-GUIDE.PDF If law enforcement agencies have any questions about this service, please contact Firearms Unit Supervisors Brad Rollo at (608) 261-8134 or Andrew Nowlan at (608) 267-2776.

The Crime Information Bureau will be hosting its 16th annual CIB Conference on September 16th-18th in the Wisconsin Dells, WI at the Chula Vista Resort. The conference attracts over 375 attendees from across the state. This year brings sessions on DNA at Arrest, “Murder of the Lakewood Four,” Heroin, officer involved shootings, unmanned drones, UCR, security/IT, DOT, DNR, domestic violence, stress management for first responders, drug cartels and more. Information gathered from the conference can benefit people with direct and indirect access to Law Enforcement Information. Vendors will also be available with the hottest new law enforcement technologies. Attendees can register online at <http://www.cvent.com/d/6rq83r>.

With the new DNA at Arrest law, law enforcement agencies still have many questions relating to the collection processes. A panel of DOJ experts will be on hand to explain the processes and answer audience questions. The “Murder of the Lakewood Four” showcases the danger police face when people are intent on hurting law enforcement officers. Four Lakewood, WA Police Officers were shot and killed while on break in a local coffee shop by a convicted felon intent on murdering police officers. Lakewood Acting Chief Mike Zaro will present the facts of the incident, lessons learned and the effects on the department in the five years since it occurred.

Very truly yours,

*Brad D. Schimel
Attorney General*

State v. Blatterman Decided by the Wisconsin Supreme Court (May 5, 2015)

Issue:

This case involved the probable cause necessary for arresting a subject for a P.A.C. violation, when the subject has a .02 threshold. The case also dealt with the community caretaker doctrine. The Supreme Court held there was sufficient probable cause for a P.A.C. arrest as a stand-alone charge. The court also reprised its earlier holdings that the community caretaker doctrine can be applicable even when the officer has a concurrent investigatory objective.

Facts:

The police received a dispatch that the defendant was bringing gas into his house to apparently try to blow up the home. The complainant was the defendant's wife. While the police were responding to this call, they received an updated dispatch advising that the defendant was leaving his home in a white minivan with a specifically described license plate number. Dispatch further informed that the defendant was possibly intoxicated and had, in the past, mentioned "suicide by cop".

Soon after receiving the second dispatch the police observed the defendant's vehicle approaching, and the police performed a high-risk stop. The police directed the defendant to turn off his vehicle, to open the driver's side window, and to put his hands outside. Instead the defendant opened the driver's side door, exited the vehicle and began walking toward the police. The police told the defendant to stop and advised that if he continued walking they would use their taser. Eventually the defendant stopped and he was brought to the ground and handcuffed.

The defendant complained to the police that his chest hurt and the police called for EMS. Though it was a very cold March day the defendant was wearing only a short sleeve shirt and jeans. The officers smelled alcohol on the defendant's breath and noticed that his eyes were watery. The police also became aware that the defendant had three prior O.W.I. convictions and consequently had a .02 PAC threshold.

The EMS arrived and the defendant refused their services. The police were concerned that the defendant might have been over exposed to carbon monoxide and based on all the circumstances they encountered decided to transport the defendant to a hospital ten miles away. At the hospital the defendant was checked out and also submitted to a blood sample showing his blood alcohol concentration to be .11. The defendant was charged with a P.A.C. violation- a fourth offense of the O.W.I. law.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that he was unlawfully transported to the hospital and therefore all the evidence gathered at the hospital should be suppressed. The defendant argued that the police did not have probable cause; only reasonable suspicion, which does not justify a transport of ten miles.

The State's Argument:

The state argued that the transport was permissible because the police had probable cause to arrest the defendant for a P.A.C.02 violation and that the transport was also permissible under the community caretaker doctrine.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court Holding:

The court agreed with the state and endorsed the transport on both the probable cause and the community caretaker theories.

Probable cause:

The court held that there was probable cause to arrest because of the defendant's prior record, his .02 threshold, and the officer's observations of the defendant.

Community Caretaker:

The court held that the police also had a sufficient basis for the community caretaker doctrine as the police had valid concerns for the defendant's well-being based on his wife's initial complaint, the defendant's erratic behavior, and the defendant's chest pain complaint.

Key Points:

- 1) 3 justices ruled that mere odor is sufficient for the formulation of probable cause for arrest for a PAC violation when the PAC threshold is .02. While this is not a majority, it is important to note that none of the justices ruled out this possibility for future cases; they just did not have to find so here when there were watery eyes and the defendant's erratic behavior to add with the odor to the probable cause calculus. It is clear that when it comes to a PAC .02 arrest, the police do not need much more than the odor to have probable cause.
- 2) The police can arrest a person for a PAC violation as a stand-alone charge, without also arresting for OWI, and can do so before getting a test result. However, this is likely only going to occur in a .02 case.
- 3) The court reminds us that the police can have an investigatory agenda and also have a bona fide community caretaker motivation. The key is that the caretaker instinct is reasonable and that the police act consistently with this motivation.

- 4) Also, it is important to recognize that the transport could not be justified under a Terry detention, as it was a ten mile distance. The court did not opine how long a distance would be too long but we now know ten miles is too long.

Wisconsin State Patrol Mobile Data Browser (MDB) System and Mobile Architecture for Communications Handling (MACH) Software Alternative

Tuesday, March 17, 2015

9:18 PM

Users of the Mobile Data Browser (MDB) system supported by the Wisconsin State Patrol received notice on November 11, 2014 that the system is scheduled to be taken offline. The December 31st, 2015 deactivation date is due to an inability of the antiquated MDB system to meet new Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) security requirements.

As a replacement for the messaging and TIME system query capabilities of the MDB system, the Wisconsin State Patrol and Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources have jointly funded the sub-licensing of a software called Mobile Architecture for Communications Handling (MACH). MACH is offered through the National Model. <http://www.nationalmodel.us/>

The MACH software uses a broadband connection, GPS and downloaded maps to provide users with automatic vehicle location (AVL) capabilities. Beyond AVL functionality, MACH provides users with enhanced messaging features and the ability to securely run advanced queries of the TIME system. TIME system returns from MACH can be imported into the forms within the Traffic and Criminal Software (TraCS) software used by agencies across the state.

The MACH sub-license agreement has allowed the Wisconsin State Patrol to make the software available to more than sixty additional government public safety agencies including those seeking an alternative to the MDB system. Additional user agency costs are limited to those associated with the broadband data expenses, a $12 per year/per mobile unit Google Maps user fee and the expense of the hardware necessary to run MACH. The hardware requirements for MACH are identical to those required for Traffic and Criminal Software (TraCS) and the Incident Location Tool (ILT).

A video with a description of MACH and some of its capabilities is available on YouTube at: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=io-eLDgNct0>

Agencies that would like more information about the MACH software may contact: MACH@dot.wi.gov

A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER YOU SHOULD KNOW

SUBMIT A LAW ENFORCEMENT MEMBER FOR RECOGNITION

Law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention personnel work tirelessly day-in and day-out to serve and protect our citizens. All too often their daily performance is taken for granted and only becomes newsworthy when something extraordinary happens.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) would like to recognize and provide a format for agencies and peers to recognize law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention officers who exhibit exceptional commitment, dedicated community service, and ethical leadership on a daily basis as they perform their duties. While many awards exist to recognize exceptional service, the so called “routine efforts” can sometimes go unnoticed.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.

On the submission form you will have the opportunity to provide a short bio of the individual and share a story or provide an example of the extra effort, kindness, or creativity that your member shows in their work on a daily basis. A photo of the individual and/or the agency logo is also encouraged. Submissions will be excepted from front-line supervisors or higher and will be reviewed by DOJ staff. The support of our criminal justice partners will make this a successful endeavor and provide some well-deserved recognition to those in the field.

SEXUAL ASSAULT INVESTIGATION BEST PRACTICES: A VICTIM-CENTERED & OFFENDER-FOCUSED RESPONSE

Cross-training among the various disciplines responsible for responding to a report of sexual assault is essential in ensuring that each professional understands, respects, and values the roles and responsibilities of their colleagues.

This multidisciplinary response is considered best practice as it provides a collaborative, victim-centered response to sensitive crimes by reducing the potential for re-victimization by the criminal justice system and begins the process of healing for the victim. It also ensures an offender-focused response by gathering all of the facts of a case, drawing attention to the actions and behaviors of the offender, and holding the perpetrator of the crime accountable for their actions.

The first day of training, open to a multidisciplinary audience including law enforcement, advocates, sexual assault nurse examiners, prosecutors, victim/witness specialists and other community collaborators, will examine the biological backdrop from which trauma reactions emerge, providing investigators, prosecutors, advocates and other stake-holders with a more complete understanding of how to respond to victims, how to investigate these cases more fully, and how to gain offender accountability.

The second day of training, open to members of law enforcement only, will explore the research supporting the use of trauma-informed interview techniques as the best means for obtaining the most accurate information from victim survivors about the sexual assault event. The trauma impact will be connected to the interview, providing explanation for what we know about the impact of trauma on the brain with demonstration of how “old” interview/interrogation methods are ineffective. Information will also be provided on how, due to these ineffective methods, we have inadvertently set victims up to fail, set up well-intentioned investigations to fail and set up prosecutions to fail. Finally, participants will be provided with an overview of the forensic experiential trauma interview techniques.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE INVESTIGATION BEST PRACTICES: A VICTIM-CENTERED & OFFENDER-FOCUSED RESPONSE

Cross-training among the various disciplines responsible for responding to a report of domestic violence is essential in ensuring that each professional understands, respects, and values the roles and responsibilities of their colleagues.

This multidisciplinary response is considered best practice as it provides a collaborative, victim-centered response to sensitive crimes by reducing the potential for re-victimization by the criminal justice system and begins the process of healing for the victim. This FREE, two-day training is open to law enforcement, victim advocates, medical personnel, prosecutors, victim/witness specialists, and other community collaborations. Through presentations, videos, group and panel discussions, we will address topics such as:

- The dynamics of victimization
- Trauma-informed investigations
