MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague –

We hope that you have noticed the increased visibility of the Wisconsin Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) program over the past few months. The Wisconsin Department of Justice's Division of Law Enforcement Services, through the Bureau of Justice Information and Analysis (BJIA), launched a new set of data dashboards to provide offense and arrest data in a more current, interactive, dynamic, and user-friendly format compared to the previous static tables found in the Crime and Arrests in Wisconsin publications. The dashboards are found on the BJIA page of the DOJ website. We are working to add additional data in the upcoming months including arrests by race, sex, and age; trend information by agency; violent and property crime rates; more detailed views of homicide and sexual assault data; as well as law enforcement employee data. In addition, the 2015 UCR data will be released this month on the dashboards. The UCR program also developed a data quality report that was sent to law enforcement agencies earlier this year to provide agencies the opportunity to review and update data prior to the annual submission deadline. This is one of many efforts aimed at improving agency access to data, as well as enhancing the accuracy, consistency, and completeness of the data being submitted to the state program and the FBI. We welcome your comments and suggestions as we continue to provide enhanced access and develop additional tools to make the UCR data more useful to law enforcement agencies statewide.

In addition to the dashboards and data quality reports, the UCR program has initiated a series of training sessions on both Summary-Based Reporting (SBR) and Incident-Based Reporting at various locations across the state. It has been more than 10 years since this type of formal UCR training has been offered by the state program and we believe this is another critical step in supporting law enforcement agencies and helping to improve the quality of the information being submitted to the UCR program. The first scheduled trainings took place in Madison during April with more than 120 people in attendance over the two-day period. The additional training dates and locations are listed below and are being sent to the UCR contacts and agency heads as the registration becomes available for each session. We hope you consider sending your UCR staff to this important (and free) training opportunity.

The UCR program will also be sending a letter to all law enforcement agency heads regarding the FBI's plan to sunset the SBR program. The FBI has recently indicated that one of the FBI Director's priority projects is to move all reporting agencies nationally to IBR by January 1, 2021, with an annual review on the progress and feasibility of the transition timeline. To support this effort, the BJIA was awarded a planning grant under the National Crime Statistics Exchange (NCS-X) project (a project by the Bureau of Justice Statistics to obtain a nationally representative sample of IBR reporting agencies) to evaluate the impact this may have on the Wisconsin UCR program and local law enforcement agencies. As we are working through this planning effort, we will be sharing additional information with local agencies and will also be gathering information on the needs and challenges faced by agencies transitioning to IBR. In addition, the UCR program will be working directly with agencies that are part of the NCS-X sample selected to make the initial transition and will also be monitoring additional funding opportunities to help support agencies transitioning to IBR. If your agency is interested in moving to IBR, please contact the BJIA at statsanalysis@doj.state.wi.us.

Looking ahead, the BJIA will continue to focus on improving the accuracy and timeliness of data submissions, preparing for additional agencies transitioning to IBR, and making data more available to local agencies and the community. We welcome your ideas and suggestions on ways to improve the UCR program and make the data more useful for law enforcement agencies across the state. Thank you for your continued support of the UCR program as we undergo additional program changes and enhancements. Your continued commitment to providing accurate and timely crime and arrest information is key to supporting data-driven decision making and policies, with a focus on reducing crime and victimization in the State of Wisconsin.

Very truly yours,

Brad D. Schimel
Attorney General

United States v. Whitaker Decided by the US Court of Appeals (7th Circuit) 4/12/16/2016

Issue:

The application of the Jardines doctrine to dog sniffing in apartment complexes. The 7th Circuit held that the Jardines requirement for a warrant prior to a dog sniff of a home extends to a dog sniff of an apartment home.

Facts:

A police officer met with a confidential informant about drug dealing at an apartment complex. Soon thereafter the police met with the apartment building manager and learned that the suspect apartment was leased to the defendant. The property manager escorted the police to the underground parking garage, where the officer observed the defendant's vehicle, a black Cadillac Escalade.

A month later the same confidential informant notified the police in a text message that there was a lot of heroin in the apartment. The property manager signed a consent form, authorizing a canine search in the apartment complex. Shortly after that the police responded to the apartment building with a canine, "Hunter". Hunter first alerted on the Escalade parked in the space for apartment 204, though a later search of the Escalade found no drugs. The officers then took Hunter to the second floor of the apartment building and into its locked hallway, where there were at least 6 to 8 apartments. Hunter took a quick walk through the hallway to get used to any people or animal smells. During the first pass Hunter showed an extreme interest in Apartment 204 but did not alert. Hunter then alerted to apartment 208, not the targeted apartment. On a repeat sniff Hunter did alert to apartment 204. The police then got a search warrant based in part on Hunter's alert, and found drugs in Apartment 204.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued, among other things, that the evidence should have been suppressed since Hunter had engaged in a warrantless dog sniff of his apartment home exterior.

The State's Argument:

The state argued that Jardines should not be applicable in a communal hallway in an apartment complex.

The 7th Circuit Holding:

The Court agreed with the defendant and found that Jardines was applicable. First, the court reviewed Jardines and felt that the root of the opinion was the Supreme Court's concern about homeowners being at the mercy of technology that can discern all human activity in the home. The court reasoned that a drug-sniffing dog is a sophisticated sensing device not available to the general public. So, the court noted that Hunter detected something that otherwise would have been unknowable without entering the apartment.

The Court concluded that while the defendant did not have a reasonable expectation of complete privacy in an apartment hallway, this lack of privacy does not mean that the defendant had no reasonable expectation of privacy against persons in his hallway snooping into his apartment using sensitive devices not available to the general public. The court found that the police should have had a dog sniff warrant before introducing Hunter to the communal hallway by the defendant's apartment.

The Bottom Line

This is a significant case. It means that the police should not engage in apartment hallway dog sniffs unless they have a warrant. My recommendation is that the police consider a two pronged warrant. The first part of the search warrant, asking for authorization for a dog sniff; this portion would not require the same probable cause necessary to get a search warrant for the home itself. The second portion would be an anticipatory search warrant for the apartment, based in part on the dog alerting pursuant to the authorized dog sniff.

A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER YOU SHOULD KNOW

SUBMIT A LAW ENFORCEMENT MEMBER FOR RECOGNITION

Law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention personnel work tirelessly day-in and day-out to serve and protect our citizens. All too often their daily performance is taken for granted and only becomes newsworthy when something extraordinary happens.

While many awards exist to recognize exceptional service, the so called "routine efforts" can sometimes go unnoticed.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.

On the submission form you will have the opportunity to provide a short bio of the individual and share a story or provide an example of the extra effort, kindness, or creativity that your member shows in their work on a daily basis. ## Humane officers: A good answer to the age old problem of animal abuse and neglect *Registration deadline for training is September 21

By Yvonne Bellay, DVM, MS

“Man accused of stabbing cocker spaniel that kept returning home”

“60 dead horses found on Wisconsin farm”

These are the headlines no police chief or sheriff wants to see in the morning paper. Why? Animal cases arouse public emotion unlike almost any other kind of issue. In these days of animal rights debate, the emotion has reached new heights. And animal cases are complex, crossing the lines of cruelty laws, public health, zoning ordinances, privacy and cultural differences. They demand some knowledge of animal husbandry. Evidence collection is specialized – collecting fecal samples is not the same as dusting for fingerprints. These cases are never cut and dried, and they’re always more complex than simple issues of food and water. They can eat up your time and resources, and still come to nothing. If it turns out right, you’re a hero. If it turns out wrong, you’re incompetent, unethical or both.

And so, too often, animal cases get ignored while you focus on crimes with human victims.

Animal cases almost never present the proverbial win-win situation, it’s true. But they don’t have to be no-win cases, and they don’t have to drain resources from other law enforcement efforts. And given the clear link between animal abuse and domestic abuse, a successful prosecution in an animal case may well prevent future crimes where humans get hurt.

What’s the answer? Appointing a trained, certified humane officer to take charge of animal cases and complaints. Now’s the time to think about doing just that, because the state’s once-a-year training course is coming up this fall.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection will offer its annual humane officer training course September 26-30, 2016 in Madison. This 40-hour course teaches a special set of skills and a body of law that applies only to animal cases. The training makes the job of investigating these cases easier to handle and leads to a more enforceable case against the offender.

As a trained humane officer, you will learn the techniques for photographing an animal hoarder’s home or an animal cruelty scene. By the end of training, you’ll know whether a ratty-looking coat is seasonal shedding or a sign of neglect and whether a three-sided shed is adequate shelter.

The curriculum covers a wide range of topics including the role of an animal investigator, Wisconsin animal law, cruelty evaluation, nutrition, photography, and evidence collection specifically relating to animal cases. Training is conducted by veterinarians, attorneys and law enforcement officers with years of experience in investigating animal cases. Hands-on training at the University of Wisconsin-Madison barns is another highly rated feature of the class.

Watch your mailbox for our registration brochure, which should arrive soon or contact Gena Goldade at 608-224-4889, e-mail gena.goldade@wi.gov. You can also get the details and download a registration form on our website: <http://datcp.wi.gov>, search “Humane Officer Training.”
