MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague –

Domestic violence and sexual assault investigations are of critical importance to every community, and often provide the most significant challenges to law enforcement. In order to make education on these topics more available, the Wisconsin Department of Justice's Training & Standards Bureau has restructured and scheduled domestic violence conferences to be more accommodating for agencies with seasonal staffing needs.

"There is no greater responsibility for a police officer than to protect a person from harm and domestic violence investigations done thoroughly and with compassion have the ability to save lives. The WI DOJ Homicide Prevention through Domestic Violence Intervention conferences will give each officer the tools necessary to recognize the cycle of violence, detect an offender's deceptive behavior, identify the predominant aggressor and lead to their successful prosecution."

- Eric Atkinson, Chief, Menomonie Police Department

The new Wisconsin DOJ Homicide Prevention through Domestic Violence Intervention conferences are now scheduled, using a format that combines foundational information and best practices for initial responders on days one and two with more advanced investigation tools on day three.

The Wisconsin DOJ Homicide Prevention through Domestic Violence Intervention conferences will be held as follows:

*January 29-31, 2018 in Beloit, WI
February 14-16, 2018 in Cudahy, WI
April 24-26, 2018 in Ladysmith WI
May 7-9, 2018 in Cleveland, WI
June 4-6, 2018 in Marshfield, WI*

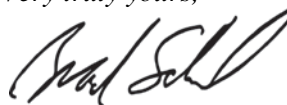

Registration for these courses is now open on WILENET.

DOJ will also provide four, one-day "specialty" trainings, including sessions on stalking and strangulation. A special training on working with underserved communities is scheduled for March 19 in Sparta, Wis. Registration is now open on WILENET.

Ten sexual assault trainings will also be offered this year throughout the state. The first series will be a three-day Advanced Best Practices for Interviewing, and attendees should plan to attend all three days. The course brings hands-on practice of trauma-informed interview techniques with immediate feedback. Past participants have said the course has changed the way they interview victims, to the benefit of both the victim and the overall investigation. These three-day sessions will take place in the first half of 2018. The second series of sexual assault trainings will focus on best practices for the initially responding officer, and will be scheduled to occur in the second half of the year. Dates and locations are being finalized, and will be posted on WILENET by the beginning of February.

I welcome you to attend any and all of the conferences and trainings we provide, particularly those detailed above, which are so critical to our communities. Please feel free to contact DOJ's Training and Standards Bureau with suggestions for future training or conference topics.

Very truly yours,

*Brad D. Schimel
Attorney General*

State of Wisconsin v. Travis J. Rose Decided by the Wisconsin Court of Appeals- December 13, 2017

Issue:

The court looked at whether there was sufficient reasonable suspicion to extend a traffic stop after the defendant successfully completed his standardized field sobriety tests (SFSTs). The court concluded that there was sufficient suspicion to extend the stop and thus when the officer asked for consent to search the vehicle, the defendant was still lawfully seized.

Facts:

Around 3:30 in the afternoon the police received two separate 911 calls about a vehicle being driven very erratically. One of the callers further mentioned that the driver was smacking himself in the face, in an apparent attempt to stay awake. The callers advised that the driver had just stopped at a gas station and the officer responded to the scene. Upon arrival, the officer observed people yelling at the defendant because of his bad driving.

The officer approached the defendant who was in the process of gassing up his vehicle, and explained to the defendant that he was investigating the bad driving allegations. The defendant attempted to explain away his bad driving by claiming that he had been texting and that he went into the ditch when pulling into the gas station because he was sending one final text. The defendant also mentioned that he was taking prescription medication.

While interacting with the defendant the officer did not smell any intoxicants but he did notice the defendant swaying from side to side and having slurred speech. The defendant agreed to perform SFSTs and performed them satisfactorily. After the defendant completed the SFSTs he paid for his gasoline and then he and the officer began walking out of the gas station and back towards the defendant's car. At this point the officer felt that his investigation as to whether the defendant was under the influence of alcohol had been completed, but that he also continued to observe a deterioration of the defendant's condition; his walk was more labored, there was more stumbling, and his speech was more slurred. The officer was struck by the difference between the defendant's behavior and his performance on the SFSTs. The officer felt it prudent to continue to investigate the situation and at this point he asked the defendant for consent to search the vehicle. The defendant consented, the vehicle was searched, and evidence was discovered that led to charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of narcotic drugs.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that the police had completed their traffic mission when he had successfully completed his SFST's. So, the defendant reasoned that his consent to search was invalid because when he consented he was unlawfully seized.

The Court's Holding:

The court of appeals noted that the completion of the SFST's only signaled the end of the investigation as to driving while under the influence of alcohol. But the officer had plenty of remaining reasonable suspicion of something else being wrong based on his observations of the defendant. The court went even so far to say the police might have even have had probable cause of drugged driving and certainly had it for driving while texting. So, when the police asked for consent to search, they were reasonably continuing an investigation as to what had caused the bad driving and the defendant's slurring and poor balance.

Key Points:

The court emphasized that just because the initial reason for the stop might have concluded, other reasons can emerge that lawfully allow for an extension of the traffic stop. This case also reminds us of the control an officer has during a valid Terry stop including moving with the defendant and conducting various investigatory functions.

A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER YOU SHOULD KNOW

SUBMIT A LAW ENFORCEMENT MEMBER FOR RECOGNITION

Law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention personnel work tirelessly day-in and day-out to serve and protect our citizens. All too often their daily performance is taken for granted and only becomes newsworthy when something extraordinary happens.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) would like to recognize and provide a format for agencies and peers to recognize law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention officers who exhibit exceptional commitment, dedicated community service, and ethical leadership on a daily basis as they perform their duties. While many awards exist to recognize exceptional service, the so called "routine efforts" can sometimes go unnoticed.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.

On the submission form you will have the opportunity to provide a short bio of the individual and share a story or provide an example of the extra effort, kindness, or creativity that your member shows in their work on a daily basis. A photo of the individual and/or the agency logo is also encouraged. Submissions will be excepted from front-line supervisors or higher and will be reviewed by DOJ staff. January Top Cop

Top Cops Nicholas Schlei and Nicholas Reid from Milwaukee Police Department's Fourth District were on patrol Tuesday, December 26 when they saved the lives of two teenagers whose vehicle had burst into flames. Read about the heroic actions of these officers in a story from the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel:

It could have been a horrible new year for the families of two Milwaukee teenagers if not for two young Milwaukee police officers known as "The Nick Squad."

Fourth District Officers Nicholas Schlei and Nicholas Reid, both 23, were on patrol near N. 55th St. and W. Villard Ave. shortly after 7:30 p.m. Tuesday when a 1999 Pontiac Grand Am crashed into a utility pole.

Flames soon erupted from the vehicle's engine compartment.

"The flames, by the time I got out there, were too big for a fire extinguisher," Reid said at a news conference Wednesday.

"We knew that we had to get those kids out."

Without gloves in single-digit temperatures, the two officers made the split-second decision to try to pull the two 16-year-old boys from the burning car, which was on its roof.

Another teenage boy had already escaped the vehicle and kicked out a window, but the driver and another boy were unconscious in the back seat area.

"I knew the car had the potential to become engulfed but at the time that's not what we were thinking," Schlei said, describing how he and Reid were able to pull the boys out in less than 60 seconds.

"It feels like a lot longer when you're doing it though."

The three teens were taken to a hospital for treatment. The driver will be cited for failure to yield and reckless driving, police said.

"Brave men and women in law enforcement make daily sacrifices - both big and small - in order to keep you, me, and our community's safe," Attorney General Brad Schimel said today in a video to law enforcement. "I commend Officer Schlei and Officer Reid for their heroic actions that led to two lives being saved."
