MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague,

The Department of Justice (DOJ) has been performing background checks on handgun purchases from federal firearm licensees (FFLs) since 1991. This work is accomplished by DOJ's Crime Information Bureau (CIB) Firearms Unit. With the onset of concealed carry licensing and notable national trends, the DOJ sought out ways to increase functionality and efficiencies in the processing of FFL handgun purchase checks, while ensuring prohibited persons are not approved for purchase. As a result of statutory changes in 2013 Wisconsin Act 109, the DOJ is now able to accept an online application from the FFL versus submitting paper forms or taking the information by phone. The online submission of handgun transfer requests by an FFL, in conjunction with an overall technology rewrite, has expedited the review process for handgun purchases.

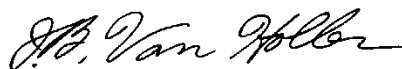

The electronic upgrade will be beneficial to our law enforcement partners as well. In addition to general follow-up responsibilities, such as contacting the courts, DA's and local law enforcement, to obtain additional information necessary to make an approve or deny determination during the background check, the firearms unit also has statutory authority (s. 175.35 (2k) (g) Wis. Stats) to notify local law enforcement if a person who is prohibited from possessing a firearm, pursuant to s. 941.29, Wis. Stats., attempts to purchase a handgun. If the prohibiting event is a federal disqualifier, such as a domestic violence conviction, the ATF is contacted. A background check by the firearms unit recently resulted in the following success story, which illustrates the results of interagency cooperation when conducting these checks.

Recently, a university student made a threat of violence toward someone at the school. During this time, the student also attempted to purchase a firearm in which he falsified the firearms paperwork stating that he was a U.S. citizen (federal offenses under Title 18 Section 924 and 911). This subject was ultimately placed on an emergency detention by local law enforcement. Due to the subject's foreign status and questionable student visa, the FBI, ICE and the U.S. Attorney General's Office became involved. Through close coordination of all agencies involved, the subject was subsequently committed based on his mental health status, followed by a federal indictment. The firearms unit was in constant communication with all agencies, and, as a result of that communication, the subject was categorized as a prohibited purchaser. These actions all took place within one week of the initial incident and prior to release of the subject.

The DOJ has historically emphasized the importance of interagency cooperation and is committed to our motto of "Exist to Assist." This success story is an excellent example of collaboration between the DOJ, federal, state and local agencies in the furtherance of public safety.

I'd also like to remind all of our local partners of one more way in which we can partner to further protect public safety. The next National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day, hosted by the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, is scheduled for Saturday, April 26, 2014. As part of the DOJ's Heroin prevention public awareness campaign -- The Fly Effect -- we will be airing a TV and radio spot throughout April to promote the Take-Back Initiative. We all know prescription drugs serve as a gateway to Heroin abuse so I encourage you to consider participating in this year's initiative and highlighting this critical issue. Please contact Nancy Carter, Intelligence Analyst out of the DEA's Milwaukee District Office, for more information about registering. She can be reached by email at Nancy.L.Carter@usdoj.gov, or by phone at 414-336-7403. Thank you.

Sincerely,

J.B. Van Hollen
Attorney General

LEGAL POINTS

If you have any comments regarding Legal Points, please contact Dave Perlman, Assistant Attorney General, P.O. Box 7070, Madison, WI 53707-7070 608-266-1420,

State v Scull Decided by the Wisconsin Court of Appeals 1/28/14

Issue:

Whether the good faith doctrine is applicable for a dog sniff of a front door of a residence, made before the United States Supreme Court held in Florida v Jardines that such conduct was a constitutional violation. The court of appeals held that the police were acting in good faith reliance on the law as they understood it at the time of the dog sniff. Accordingly, the court of appeals affirmed the trial court's determination not to suppress the evidence generated by a search warrant that was issued, in part, upon information provided by the dog sniff.

Facts:

A reliable confidential informer advised the police that the defendant was involved in the distribution of cocaine and that the defendant conducts his narcotics trafficking from a green early nineties Ford Bronco. The confidential informer further advised the police as to where they believed the defendant resided.

The police followed up on the confidential informer's tip. The police were able to verify both the defendant's address and the vehicle. The police further learned that the defendant had been convicted of robbery in 2000 and was currently on probation. The police along with their trained drug sniffing dog, Voden, went to the defendant's residence. The police and Voden went to the front door and Voden alerted. Based upon the information provided from the confidential informant and Voden's alert, the police applied for and received a search warrant for the defendant's residence. Upon executing the search warrant the police found illegal drugs and drug trafficking paraphernalia.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that the police violated his constitutional rights when they arranged for a warrantless, non-consensual, dog sniff of his front door. Therefore, the defendant contends that the search warrant was unlawful as it was based in part upon information generated by an unlawful dog sniff. Accordingly, the defendant asked that all the evidence obtained during the execution of the search warrant be dismissed.

The State's Argument

The state argued that while under current law the dog sniff was unconstitutional, it was proper under the law at the time the dog sniff was performed. The state reasoned that since the police were operating in good faith reliance on the law at the time of the sniff, the sniff was lawful, and therefore so was the search warrant, issued in part because of the canine sniff.

The Court of Appeals Holding

The court of appeals agreed that under the law, as it now exists and articulated in Florida v Jardines, the warrantless non-consensual dog sniff was a violation of the defendant's constitutional rights. Jardines held that a dog sniff of a front door, unlike a dog sniff of a vehicle, requires a court order, warrant, or consent. However, the court further held that at the time of the challenged dog sniff Jardines had not been decided, and the status of the law then would have permitted the dog sniff. Therefore, the police were operating under good faith and the search warrant was a product of good faith, and the court found the evidence generated by the search warrant admissible.

Note:

Any dog sniff of a front door, after Jardines was decided, is impermissible unless based on a court order, warrant, or consent. However, the law remains unchanged that a dog sniff of the exterior of a vehicle is not a search within the meaning of the 4th amendment.

A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER YOU SHOULD KNOW

SUBMIT A LAW ENFORCEMENT MEMBER FOR RECOGNITION

Law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention personnel work tirelessly day-in and day-out to serve and protect our citizens. All too often their daily performance is taken for granted and only becomes newsworthy when something extraordinary happens.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) would like to recognize and provide a format for agencies and peers to recognize law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention officers who exhibit exceptional commitment, dedicated community service, and ethical leadership on a daily basis as they perform their duties. While many awards exist to recognize exceptional service, the so called “routine efforts” can sometimes go unnoticed.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.

On the submission form you will have the opportunity to provide a short bio of the individual and share a story or provide an example of the extra effort, kindness, or creativity that your member shows in their work on a daily basis. A photo of the individual and/or the agency logo is also encouraged. Submissions will be excepted from front-line supervisors or higher and will be reviewed by DOJ staff. The support of our criminal justice partners will make this a successful endeavor and provide some well-deserved recognition to those in the field.
