MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Official:

Much of the Division of Law Enforcement Services within the Department of Justice (DOJ) continues to focus on the demands of the Carry Concealed Weapons legislation. Additional CCW staff soon will be added so the DOJ can stay current with processing permits while also moving forward on a number of other projects.

The Crime Information Bureau's (CIB) Firearms Unit continues to receive applications at a steady pace of approximately 3,000 per week. The unit has processed and approved more than 75,000 concealed carry licenses since November 1st. During this same time period, a record number of handgun purchases also have been processed by the Firearms Unit. December 2011 was a record-setting month, with CIB processing more than 13,000 handgun background checks. As this is going to press, February numbers may meet or exceed that record.

The staff of the Training and Standards Bureau (T&S) has developed additional CCW Training for Law Enforcement Personnel. Courses are scheduled in Madison and Waukesha this month with four more offerings on tap in April. You can view the complete schedule and register staff on WILENET. While building the CCW permitting process from the ground up in fewer than six months, CIB also has started the migration process from INTCH (Internet Access to Criminal History) to WORCS (Wisconsin Online Record Check System). Agencies that complete billable criminal history requests such as those for bartenders, solicitor permits, or criminal justice applicant fingerprint cards will need to migrate their account information from the old system into the new system. This migration needs to occur before we go into WORCS production on April 1, 2012. Migration only takes about 15 minutes. CIB staff member Kevin Sime, simeka@doj.state.wi.us or 608 266-9398, can answer any questions or provide migration assistance.

T&S staff also are working with a number of criminal justice partners to host Wisconsin's First Problem Oriented Policing (POP) Conference in Appleton at the end of the month. Successful problem solving efforts by Wisconsin law enforcement agencies will be highlighted during the conference.

Finally, we are working with the Death Response Team from the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police Association on a law enforcement suicide prevention training program. The DOJ is providing funds to train Protecting the Peace Keepers instructors. As I learned at the 2010 Attorney General's Summit, policing is a hazardous profession and we all need to do more to care for our cops. Again, check WILENET for upcoming training dates and locations.

2012 already has been a busy year. Thank you for your commitment to keeping Wisconsin a safe place to live.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "J.B. Van Hollen". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.

J.B. Van Hollen

State v. Sobczak 2012 WI App 6

Decided by the Court of Appeals- 12/21/11

Issue:

Whether a girlfriend visiting for a weekend and given a free run of the house, can consent to a police entry into the residence, and could consent to a search of her boyfriend's computer. The Court of Appeals held that she had the authority to grant lawful consent for both entry to the home and a search of the computer.

Facts:

The defendant invited his girlfriend to stay with him for the weekend at the house he lived in, though it was owned by his parents. When the defendant left for work he told his girlfriend that she could use his laptop. The girlfriend discovered child pornography on the computer and called the police. When the police arrived the girlfriend let them in the house and permitted the police to search and seize the defendant's laptop computer.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that the girlfriend did not have the actual authority or even the apparent authority to allow the police to enter a home, that she was merely a guest in. The defendant also argued that the girlfriend had no authority to let the police search the defendant's computer.

The State's Argument:

The state argued that the girlfriend was more than just a visitor in the home, as she was there for a weekend and given a complete run of the place. Moreover, the state argued that even if the girlfriend did not have actual authority she had sufficient apparent authority to convince the police that her consent to enter the home was lawfully given.

The Court of Appeals Holding:

The Court of Appeals that the girlfriend had the requisite actual authority to allow the police to first enter the home, and second to search the computer. The Court held that when a guest has the "run of the house", the guest has the authority to grant consent to enter the home. This is true even though the defendant's parents owned the home since the defendant was also living in the home on a permanent basis. The Court also held that since the defendant gave the girlfriend permission to use the laptop computer, she had mutual use of the property and thus could consent to it being searched by the police. Since the Court found that the girlfriend had actual authority, it did not evaluate whether she had apparent authority.

Cautionary Note: The ruling would have been different if the girlfriend was just visiting for a short time. Also it is important if an officer is confronted with this type of situation, to question the guest to make sure that they have the "run of the place" as was the case here. Finally, the girlfriend's consent was only good for those common areas that she had access to and to property that home resident allowed him/her to use.
