MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague –

For the past five years, the Wisconsin Department of Justice’s Training and Standards Bureau (T&S) has been offering annual instructor updates for instructors certified to teach law enforcement, jail, and secure juvenile detention training topics by the Law Enforcement Standards Board.

T&S works with the state technical colleges and employer-based academies (e.g., Fox Valley Technical College, Wisconsin State Patrol Academy, etc.), to offer 10 to 15 instructor updates annually around the state. T&S staff provides instruction at the instructor updates along with Master Instructor Trainers.

The instructor updates have been extremely well received. T&S staff sends out an evaluation survey following the conclusion of every instructor update session held. Some of the glowing responses from the evaluation surveys include: “Overall best instructor update ever attended”; “Well thought out and planned”; “The breakout session format was fantastic. Small group discussions and practical information from other instructors/trainers was beneficial.”

For fall 2017/spring 2018, T&S has scheduled 12 instructor updates. Registration is open, and all Law Enforcement Standards Board certified instructors are required to complete one instructor update during their three-year certification period. Instructors may register to attend an instructor update via Wilenet, or click on one of the registration links below.

LEGAL POINTS

If you have any comments regarding Legal Points, please contact Dave Perlman, Assistant Attorney General, P.O. Box 7070, Madison, WI 53707-7070 608-266-1420,

State of Wisconsin v. Lewis O. Floyd Jr. Decided by the Wisconsin Supreme Court, July 2017

The Court of Appeals ruled on this case in July 2016 and its holding was discussed in a prior Legal Points. The case was appealed to the Wisconsin Supreme Court and this is a discussion of the supreme court holding.

Issue:

The court looked at whether there was proper reasonable suspicion to extend a traffic stop, whether there was consent for a search of the person, and whether asking a person for a frisk unlawfully extends a routine traffic stop. The court avoided a holding as to whether there was reasonable suspicion to extend the stop. Instead they held that asking for a frisk does not extend the stop and the defendant consented to the frisk.

Facts:

Around 6:45 pm the police stopped the defendant's vehicle because of suspended registration. Upon contact the defendant advised the police that he did not have a driver's license or insurance, but did have an identification card showing that he was from Kenosha. The officer observed that there were air fresheners in every vent of the vehicle as well as hanging off the rear view window. Because of the amount of air fresheners in the vehicle, the officer suspected drug activity. The officer also knew that the stop occurred in a high crime area where there had been a large degree of drug and gang activity, and further observed that the vehicle's windows were tinted.

After making all of these observations the officer returned to his squad to prepare three citations related to the suspended registration, lack of insurance and a driver's license and contacted dispatch to request back up. The deputy returned to the defendant and asked him to exit the vehicle, to insure that the defendant would not drive away. As the defendant exited the vehicle the officer asked the defendant if he had any weapons to which the defendant said that he did not. The deputy then asked if he could be searched for safety and the defendant agreed. The search revealed drugs.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued the officer impermissibly extended his traffic stop and that he had not consented to the search of his person. The defendant also argued that the stop could not have been extended because the police did not have reasonable suspicion of drug activity and thus should have been limited to staying on the traffic stop mission.

The Court of Appeals Holding:

Holding:

Calling it a close case, the court of appeals held there was sufficient reasonable suspicion to extend the traffic stop.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court Holding:

The high court chose not to decide this case on reasonable suspicion grounds. Instead the court held that asking a stopped subject about weapons is a routine inquiry that is part of a traffic stop, and not an extension of it. The court then held that the defendant consented to the frisk. So the bottom line holding is that a police officer can ask for a weapons check during a traffic stop as part of the traffic stop mission.

Note:

This case also reminds us that the police are entitled to have subjects exit the car in any traffic stop. And asking for consent to frisk does not extend a traffic stop. But the rule remains that in cases without reasonable suspicion the police cannot extend the traffic stop to accommodate a "fishing expedition".
