MESSAGE FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dear Law Enforcement Colleague,

The Wisconsin Department of Justice is teaming up again with several partners to bring a number of training opportunities to law enforcement personnel throughout the state. Our Crisis Management and Executive Training programs will be offered at three locations beginning in April. Law enforcement leaders are encouraged to bring local Fire and EMS personnel with them to the first day of this training, which will focus on saving lives through cooperative and coordinated response to patients in tactical and crisis scenes.

We're also accepting applications for the fall session of the Wisconsin Command College. Participants in this six-week in-residence program gain cutting edge knowledge and learn practical skills from experienced professionals. A joint venture of the Wisconsin Department of Justice and University of Wisconsin, graduates of this program are recognized as a Certified Public Manager® by the University of Wisconsin.

I am hoping you will join me at the Attorney General's Summit on Public Safety at the Kalahari Conference Center in Wisconsin Dells this June. This year's event will focus on "Protecting Our Families." We will explore how the criminal justice community can continue to work together to eliminate two threats to Wisconsin families – heroin abuse and domestic violence.

Finally, a premier law enforcement leadership training program – Leadership in Police Organizations – will be offered at six locations in Wisconsin next year. The four programs slated for this year filled quickly so you'll want to register early.

You'll find additional information including dates, locations and costs for these training programs on WILENET (www.wilenet.org). Quality training helps to make Wisconsin's already skilled and highly professional police force even better. I hope you or another member of your organization is able to take advantage of one of these opportunities.

Also, National Crime Victims' Rights Week (NCVRW) is April 6 through April 12. Law enforcement plays a vital role in protecting victims' rights. For example, in carrying out the duty to provide written information about rights within 24 hours of contact with a crime victim, you help ensure that victims are informed early in the process and better able exercise their rights moving forward. Thank you for all you do to protect victims' rights. We will commemorate NCVRW with a public ceremony at the State Capitol on April 10 from 12:00 -12:30. Please join us!

Sincerely,

*J.B. Van Hollen
Attorney General*

LEGAL POINTS

If you have any comments regarding Legal Points, please contact Dave Perlman, Assistant Attorney General, P.O. Box 7070, Madison, WI 53707-7070 608-266-1420,

Fernandez v. California Decided by the United States Supreme Court 2/25/2014

Issue:

This case looks at consent to search a home where the co-owners are not in agreement on the issue. In Georgia v. Randolph, the high court opined that consent requires consent from all co-owners present before the police can determine that they have received valid consent for a home entry. However in this case, while each owner had a different opinion, once the co-owner that refused consent was lawfully removed from the premises, the remaining consenting voice controls the issue.

Facts:

The police observed a suspect in a robbery run into an apartment building and heard screams coming from an apartment door in the building. The police knocked on the apartment door to check on what was the matter and a woman came to the door holding a baby. The woman appeared to have been crying, her face was red, and she had a large bump on her nose. The woman told the police that she had been in a fight. The officer then asked the woman to step out of the home so he could do a protective sweep, and when the officer started to enter the residence the defendant from inside the home told the police that they had no right to enter. The police arrested the defendant, and he was taken to the police station for booking.

Approximately an hour after the defendant was arrested, the police returned to the apartment and the woman with the baby consented to the police entering the home. In the apartment the police found evidence linking the defendant to the robbery for which he was a prime suspect.

The Defendant's Argument:

The defendant argued that Georgia v. Randolph controls this case and since he had protested to the entry to the police and never changed his mind, the police made an invalid entry, even though they had consent from the other co-owner. Consequently, the defendant urged the high court to suppress the incriminating evidence that was found in his apartment.

The State's Argument

The state argued that the woman's consent was sufficient, since the defendant was not present in the home when she gave consent to the police.

The Supreme Court Holding

The United States Supreme Court agreed with the state and found the police entry based on the co-owner, woman's consent, to be valid. The court emphasized that Georgia v. Randolph, is only applicable when the co-owners are both present in the home. Here, however, the objecting co-owner was no longer on the premises and therefore the police had valid consent from the one co-owner who was present in the home. The court rejected the defendant's argument that since he was present in the home when he denied consent, his objection continued to be valid, even after he was no longer present.

Note:

Naturally, the police can not deliberately seek to circumvent Georgia v. Randolph by contriving to remove the objector from the premises. The key is that the objector is lawfully not in the residence when the remaining co-owner gives consent. Georgia v. Randolph; requiring all co-owners present to give consent ("tie goes to the whiner") remains good law.

A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER YOU SHOULD KNOW

SUBMIT A LAW ENFORCEMENT MEMBER FOR RECOGNITION

Law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention personnel work tirelessly day-in and day-out to serve and protect our citizens. All too often their daily performance is taken for granted and only becomes newsworthy when something extraordinary happens.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) would like to recognize and provide a format for agencies and peers to recognize law enforcement officers, jailors, and juvenile detention officers who exhibit exceptional commitment, dedicated community service, and ethical leadership on a daily basis as they perform their duties. While many awards exist to recognize exceptional service, the so called "routine efforts" can sometimes go unnoticed.

DOJ would like to start featuring these dedicated public servants in the Law Enforcement Bulletin. If you are interested in participating in this great recognition opportunity please submit a candidate through the electronic form now available in the Law Enforcement Bulletin section of WILENET.

On the submission form you will have the opportunity to provide a short bio of the individual and share a story or provide an example of the extra effort, kindness, or creativity that your member shows in their work on a daily basis. A photo of the individual and/or the agency logo is also encouraged. Submissions will be excepted from front-line supervisors or higher and will be reviewed by DOJ staff. The support of our criminal justice partners will make this a successful endeavor and provide some well-deserved recognition to those in the field.
